WESTERN ORANGECUP LILY

(Lilium umbellatum)

The name Lilium umbellatum is sometimes misapplied to the variety Lilium dauricum or Candlestick Lily.

No perennial garden is complete without the Western Orangepup Lily, It is numbered among the very early blooms in the perennial hedge and its glowing, orange-red blossoms furnish delightful color in the springtime. The cup-like flowers are produced in clusters of three to six, at the top of strong, straight stems which stand two to three feet high. Bulbs should be planted in groups of six or eight, about four inches apart and six inches deep. Fall planting is very much better than spring planting.

Bulbs sold in packages of six bulbs, post paid.....90c.

One dozen bulbs, post paid for.....$1.60.

If Lily bulbs are ordered at same time with Gladiolus corms, etc., the price per bulb will be 15c or $1.50 per dozen.
